Background: This high-profile company in bedding materials did not want to settle for an average safety record. They knew they could do better, but were frustrated that the workers didn't place the same high priority on safety that they did.

Solution: We created a safety incentive program that rewarded workers for safety suggestions, contributions, and most importantly, outcome.

Outcome: Departments, teams, and individuals are challenged and rewarded for meeting goals. Pride in performance developed. Safety meetings are positive celebrations!
